

CONTACT: Roxanne DeMarco
Community Development Officer
First Southwest Bank
970-731-6952
roxanne.demarco@fswb.com

First Southwest Community Fund Launches New Website to Reach More of Rural Colorado In 2018

First Southwest Community Fund supports the dedicated entrepreneurial spirit of rural Colorado, by investing in the people, culture and ideas that fuel innovation and financial knowledge in our community with an emphasis on areas of greatest need.

ALAMOSA, COLO., (February 14, 2018) – First Southwest Community Fund (FSWCF) recently launched their new website at fswcf.org to provide a more seamless online experience for individuals and businesses seeking creative funding for their rural Colorado business.

The new website includes information on the Intermediary Relending Program, the New Pioneers Microloan Program, the Rural Business Development Grant, and more - including an added section for News and Community Fund success stories. It's also now much easier to reach out and gain more information regarding sponsorship, partnership, and funding.

“The main goal of updating the FSWCF website was to create a modern, easier to navigate platform for individuals and businesses to learn more about the services the community fund offers,” says Kent Curtis, FSWCF’s president. “We’re really excited about the opportunities that a more robust and accessible network will provide in this coming year.”

As a 501c3, FSWCF promotes economic development in distressed communities – helping create jobs, increasing wages, and encouraging the development of critical community infrastructure and provide new educational opportunities and financial literacy knowledge for identified populations. It achieves this by providing low-cost business and agricultural lending to create sustainable employment and jumpstart local economies.

“This new website is a long awaited platform that will allow us to do even bigger things in the future,” said FSWCF President, Kent Curtis. “Our goals have always focused on supporting small businesses and entrepreneurs who are dedicated to improving the economic sustainability of our rural Colorado communities. With a new website, we can achieve these goals and get the word out about FSWCF more efficiently.”

For more information about this new launch and potential 2018 funding opportunities for your rural Colorado business, please contact Roxanne DeMarco, roxanne.demarco@fswb.com. 2018 grant funds are subject to Congressional approval.

About First Southwest Community Fund:

As a 501c3, First Southwest Community Fund promotes economic development in distressed communities – helping create jobs, increasing wages, encouraging the development of critical community infrastructure. First Southwest Community Fund supports the dedicated entrepreneurial spirit of rural Colorado, by investing in the people, culture, and ideas that fuel innovation and financial knowledge in our community, with an emphasis on areas of greatest need. Please find more information about First Southwest Community Fund at fswcf.org or firstsouthwestcommunity.fund.

###